Frank A. Bill has the exclusive sale of Patrician $3.50 and $4.00 shoes and exfords; a woman's shoe that's right. THE AUDITORIUM.

A varied but pleasing entertainment is in store for the patrons of this popular playhouse the first three days of this week with Queen Mab and Caspar Weis in the honored place. This lady and gentleman are full grown citizens, but their combined height is only a little more than that of a good sized man. These little people are sized man. These little people are very funny even to look at and they sing, dance and play musical instruments with great skill. A sister act which is to say the least out of the ordinary is the one presented by the Langweed girls who work in much according to the control of ordinary is the one presented by the Langweed girls who work in much good comedy which gets many a heargood comedy which gets many a hearty laugh. The International xylophone artist. John Murphy, will delight his hearers with both semi-classical and popular selections, and John Burke, the English comedian, will please with his funny songs and stories.

A special feature which has been secured at extra cost for Monday and Tuesday will be the picture of King
Edward the Seventh's funeral, taken

Edward the Seventh's funeral, taken in London about two weeks ago. This is absolutely the only original American picture of the big event and you should see it.

BREED THEATER.

Grand Programme with Double Features.

The big bill at the Breed theater today includes two monster feature reels, both of which are most prominent in the motion picture field. One entitled Columbus Discovering nerica, and is a complete story of historical event from the meeting with Queen Isabella of Spain, where she gives her promise to fit out the fleet, through the various-vicissitudes fieet, through the various -vicissitudes of the voyage, to the death of Columbus, in his cell, as he sees the honors that should belong to him, being bestowed upon Americo Vespucci. The great film is heralded with especial interest by the Knights of Columbus and teachers of the larger cities where it has been so successfully shown. An especially beautiful scene is given of the Snanteh espleons at easy especially beautiful scene is given of the Spanish galleons at sea.

The Biograph company is to the front this week with their magnificent film d'art, entitled Ramona, a pic-torial delineation of Helen Jackson's famous novel of the same name. The gorgeous actual scenes of the story are utilized for this production, and the result is an artistic triumph.

Another strong picture is entitled The Shriner's Pilgrimage, while Mr. J. H. Loud will sing the season's new-est offerings in the Illustrated song

A Christian. One who has con i. A Christian. One who has con-sciously accepted Christ as a personal savior, as personal Lord and Master. He is that kind of Christian whose love for Christ is stronger than love of self —a love that will make any sacrifice -a love that will make any sacrifice cheerfully, for the sake of his Lord. This was illustrated by the boy who gave up his cheery canary bird because its notes disturbed the weak nerves of his invalid mother, saying: "I did love the canary mother, but I love you more. I could not really love anything that would give you pain."

2. Devotes his best energies to the service of Christ. He does not waste himself in other pursuits and then give his chosen Master whatever fragments of strength and energy he may have left. He is like Hiram Golph, the shoemaker, who said: "My business is serving the Lord, and I make shoes to pay expenses." Like the converted Italian who refused financial compensation for playing his violin at church services, declaring "There is nothing I can do so well as play the violin. Therefore I would give my best to Christ."

Therefore I would give my best to Christ."

3. He is a Christian in theory, practice and purpose. All the duties prescribed for him in the pian of league work are calculated to develop him into a full-orbed symmetrical, well balanced, complete Christian. The various offices and work of the different departments are intended to lead ent departments are intended to lead him to right-willing, right-feeling, right-doing, right-seeing, right-being; to a true appreciation of stewardship, and a due regard to the account which must be rendered at the judgment; also the overwhelming worth of child-hood, which emphasizes formation rather than reformation. It is a great work to rescue men and women from ever failing into vice and degradation; but it is far greater to save boys and girls from ever failing into vice and degradation. The achieving, conquering, victorious Christian of the future is to be the Epworthian at his best. Remember that God is ambitious for your life, Epworthian, as truly as every noble human father is ambitious for his child ent departments are intended to lead pworthian, as truly as every noble oman father is ambitious for his child is make the most of himself. YANTIC HAPPENINGS.

At 6.30 p. m. the anniversary devotional hour was in charge of the fourth vice president. Exercises were entertaining and helpful.

The 7.30 p. m. service consisted of music, installation of the new cabinet officers and other interests. The president and first vice president read brief but very creditable papers upon league work. By the junior superintendent a paper on Children's Rights was presented. It was up to date and showed a keen appreciation of childhood's value.

The pastor installed the officers as follows: President, Howard N. Porter:

foliows: President, Howard N. Porter; first vice president, Miss Marion B. Wolcott; second vice president, Miss Viva Mae Himes; third vice president, F. Sybil Morgan: fourth vice president, Lewis M. Carpenter; secretary, Raiph Wilson; treasurer, William J. McNeely; superintendent Junior league and Intermediate leagues, Mrs. M. S Kaufman. · There were appropriate decorations in the league colors, red and white.

POETRY.

"THE DEED IS THE MAN." The Dream is the babe in the levelit

nost,
And the rollicking boy at play;
The Dream is the youth with the eid,
old zent
For the rare romance of a day.
Then the Deed strides forth to the distant goal
That has dazzled since life began;
For the Dream is the child of the rampant soul.
But the Deed is the man.

The Dream is the peak that is seen afar.

And the wish for the engle's wings; The Dream is the song to the beckining star

That the world waif fondly sings. Then the Deed comes crowned with the strength and skill

That doth perfect a golden plan; for the Dream is the child of the sovereign will—

But the Deed is the man.

The Dream is the mask that would make men fair, And the boast that would count them The Dream is the honors that herees And the glory that high hearts crave.

Then the Deed gives battle to pride and pelf As only a conqueror can;

For the Dream is the child of the better self—

But the Deed is the man.

No song was so sweet and ne star se bright As the Dream of the Nazarene; From Virgin's bosom to Calvary's height, height.
It sang and it shone, serene.
Then the Deed proclaimed Him King of His kind
As the blood of the Martyr ran;
For the Dream was the Child of the Master mind—
But the Deed was the Man!

They yield their full return;
Where the lamps of knowledge kindle
While the flames of youth still burnt
O, for the young man's chances;
O, for the will this advances,
And the strong years cheat us still
—E. C. Stedman
